

What is eHealth?

The concept of "eHealth" is used to describe the application of information and communications technologies (ICT) across a whole range of functions that, one way or another, affect the health of citizens and patients.

A wide range of potential applications of ICT is now available in the health field and have been implemented to varying degrees across Europe. These include systems ranging from the purely administrative to those for care delivery.

EHTEL is the Focal Point into this dynamic and rapidly expanding European business domain.

Why you should join EHTEL

Benefits of Membership

As the eHealth focal point in Europe, EHTEL has taken care of supporting all those having an interest in eHealth in accessing information about what is going on in eHealth in Europe.

Our Members benefit from exclusive and individualised EHTEL added values like

- Exchanging views with other stakeholder groups (ministries, health professionals, industry, insurers, patients, academics ...)
- Networking within the EHTEL supported Working Groups
- Influencing policies related to priority themes as addressed by EHTEL Task Forces
- Gaining visibility in the eHealth arena by
 - Securing speaking slots in conferences
 - Putting papers forward in professional publications
 - Sponsoring EHTEL events
- Sharing field experience in eHealth deployment
- Obtaining individualized support in seeking information and of course receiving discounts and having their access to eHealth related events facilitated.
